THE CUSP · HARD COURT COSTS · ALL FIFTY STATES

What it costs to file for divorce

The filing fee only — every figure taken from the statute or the clerk's own published schedule, not from another guide. Sources last checked 20 August 2026. Free to read at thecusp.app/divorce-costs/ — no account, nothing to buy.

STATE	TO FILE	HOW IT IS SET
Alabama	$145 – $245	State base + local
Alaska	$250	Same statewide
Arizona	$261 – $436	State base + local
Arkansas	$165 – $185	State base + local
California	$435 – $450	State base + local
Colorado	$260	Same statewide
Connecticut	$360	Same statewide
Delaware	$175	Same statewide
Florida	$397.50	Same statewide
Georgia	$218 – $220	Set locally
Hawaii	$215	Same statewide
Idaho	$207	Same statewide
Illinois	Varies locally	Set locally
Indiana	$157 – $177	State base + local
Iowa	$285	Same statewide
Kansas	$173	Same statewide
Kentucky	Not published	Set locally
Louisiana	Varies locally	Set locally
Maine	$120	Same statewide
Maryland	$165	Same statewide
Massachusetts	$215	Same statewide
Michigan	$175 – $255	Same statewide
Minnesota	$340	Same statewide
Mississippi	$163	Set locally
Missouri	$97.50 – $197.50	Set locally
Montana	$170	Same statewide
Nebraska	$200	Same statewide
Nevada	$284 – $299	State base + local
New Hampshire	$280	Same statewide
New Jersey	$300	Same statewide
New Mexico	$137	Same statewide
New York	$210	Same statewide
North Carolina	$225	Same statewide
North Dakota	$160	Same statewide
Ohio	$200 – $485	Set locally
Oklahoma	$236 – $246	State base + local
Oregon	$301	Same statewide
Pennsylvania	$250 – $334.73	Set locally
Rhode Island	$120	Same statewide
South Carolina	$150	Same statewide
South Dakota	$97	Same statewide
Tennessee	$234.50 – $431.50	Set locally
Texas	$350 – $401	State base + local
Utah	$350	Same statewide
Vermont	$90 – $295	State base + local
Virginia	$83 – $94	State base + local
Washington	$364	State base + local
West Virginia	$135	Same statewide
Wisconsin	$184.50 – $194.50	Same statewide
Wyoming	$160	Same statewide

You may reproduce this. You do not need to ask.
Libraries, law libraries, legal aid programmes, courts, shelters, newsrooms and non-profits may reproduce these figures, in whole or in part, on a website or in print, free of charge and without asking permission. We ask for nothing in return — no payment, no reciprocal link, no account, no sign-up.

Permission is granted only on all three conditions.

1. Name The Cusp as the source.
2. Include the address thecusp.app/divorce-costs/ with the figures. Online it must be a working link a reader can follow; in print, the address must appear in full as text.
3. Show the date the figures were last checked. Filing fees move — Wisconsin's changes on 1 November 2026 — and a figure without a date is a figure nobody can rely on.

Where a total is disputed, we say so rather than choosing. Two clerks' offices publish two different totals for the same filing on their own websites; we have written to both. Corrections are published at thecusp.app/corrections/ with the date they were made, whether or not anyone else noticed. The Cusp is not a law firm, offers no lawyer referral, and takes no paid placement.